The Indianapolis Public Building Bill Not Permitted to Sleep.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 .- The committee on public buildings and grounds will hold Its first meeting to-morrow. The first session will be devoted to organization, but Chairman Milliken will thereafter push the work before the committee energetically. Mr. Henry has arranged with Mr. Milliken that the Indianapolis public building bill shall be one of the first measures to be considered, and he hopes that in a few days a date can be fixed when the committee representing the various commercial bodies and hearing before the committee. He is also making inquiries among the members of the committee as to the propriety of laying before that body an invitation from the citizens of Indianapolis to visit the city and satisfy themselves by personal observation of the need for better facilities. As soon as he learns the sentiment of the committee on the subject Mr. Henry will communicate with the Indianapolis committees, so that, if it is feasible, they may be prepared to extend the necessary invi-

The Late General Lasselle. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 .- Gen. William P. Lasselle, of the Washington bar, who died at his home here yesterday morning, came with his father to this city from Indiana. when the latter was appointed by President Taylor one of the deputy auditors of the Treasury, and very soon became a page at the Capitol. His father published for a while in 1847-9 a literary paper called the Capitol, his mother being the editor. While in Logansport, in 1861, the call for troops came. He enlisted at once in the Ninth Indiana and was chosen sergeant. He served with bravery throughout the war, rising with each battle, and was mustered out in 1864 as brigadier general. He had in 1859 been admitted to the bar of this District. and after the war he entered on the practice of law here. Overstreet's Pension Bill. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8. - Representative Overstreet will lose no opportunity to press his bill making a pension a vested right. The pension appropriation bill, which is almost ready for presentation to the House, will probably contain a provision looking to the accomplishment of the same end, but there is every reason to doubt the possibil-ity of the enactment of the bill in that shape. New legislation as a rider on an appropriation bill is invariably forbidden by e House rules, and the forthcoming rules of the Fifty-fourth House will not differ in that respect from all preceding parliamentary practice. The provision as it ocaccordingly, be challenged by a point of order, and there can be little doubt that it must be withdrawn.

Speech by Secretary of the Navy Herbert at New York, and by Hoke Smith at Philadelphia.

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 .- The annual banquet of the Business Men's Democratic Association of New York was held at the Savoy Hotel to-night. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock in the newly decorated gold banquet hall. The decorations were simple. A huge with American flags. The toastmaster was Theodore W. Myers. The toasts were: 'Sound Money Necessary to Commercial Prosperity," Hilary A. Herbert, Secretary of the Navy; "The People's Role in Politics," Isadore Rayner; "The State of New of New York," Controller A. P. Fitch; "Patriotism and Partisanship," Thomas M. Waller, ex-Governor of Connecticut; "The Press," Amos J. Cummings. Secretary Herbert began his speech by a reference to the stand taken by President Andrew Jackson against the United States banks and the State banks, and spoke of him as the "unflinching friend of honest money that cheats no man, and as the inflexible foe of a depreciated currency, which has always been the robber of the poor and despoiler of industry." Discussing the subject further, the speaker asserted that the most mischievous heresy that ever was instilled into the minds of voters in this land, the fundamental error that lay at the foundation of every argument now made for the unlimited coinage of silver, was the idea that Congress, and not commerce, controlled the values of silver and gold, Our currency system, the Secretary said, must be reformed on sound principles. This reform can only be effected by getting a sound-money President and sound-money Congress at the same time. When the issue now boldly tendered by the advocates of free silver shall have been squarely and fairly accepted and the contest fought out to a finish, when not only a President whose views are not to be doubted, but a Congress about whose opinions in favor of sound money there can be no mistake, shall have been elected, then we shall have currency reform—some stable, self-executing system that will give us at all times a fair share of the money of the world.

"Public Credit." PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.-The eightyfirst anniversary of the battle of New Orleans (Jackson day) was celebrated by the Young Men's Democratic Association tonight by a banquet in the big dining hall of the Bourse. About 200 men participated, including many Democrats of State and national celebrity. Among the latter were Vice President Stevenson, Secretary of the Interior Hoke Smith, United States Senator Faulkner, United States Treasurer Morgan, Commissioner of Patents Seymour, Congressman Hart and Deputy Pension Commissioners Murphy and Bell. Vice President Stevenson declined to make a speech, but he was given a most enthusias-

The first toast was "The memory of Jackwhich was drunk in silence and standing. Secretary Hoke Smith responded to "The Public Credit." He asserted that the country was given a sound currency by a Demogratic administration—referring to Jackson's-and it might be necessary, he said, to rely on a Democratic administration to pass legislation to maintain it. The sound money Democrats, he continued, are thoroughly sound, and if the next Democratle platform declares in unmistakalanguage on the subject there will be found few Democrats who will not heed the party's declaration. Secretary Smith revelwed the record of the Democratic administration from March 4, 1885, to March 4, 1889. He said that it had paid off $341,448,000 of bonds and had left over $230,000,000 in the treasury in excess of gold reserve; while the Republican administration which followed paid off $238,000.000 of bonds, and, though finding a surplus in the curs in the pension appropriation bill will, treasury almost sufficient for making the payments, it left the treasury practically but, on the other hand, might be a parti-empty, with the exception of the gold reserve, when turned over to the Democrats on March 4, 1893. The Secretary said there is a portion of this country whose people are as loyal to that flag as Jackson was, and who would risk their lives as quickly to carry it in triumph over every foe. They are a little sensitive, because some from other sections now and then question their relation to the only because they would prize an opportunity to close forever the voices of their critics, and by courageous action on the field add new lustre to the flag. WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 .- The Post to-morrow will say: "Ex-Senator Platt was in Washington for a short time to-day, and was seen by several members of the New York delegation in Congress, who were anxious to learn from him just what the official announcement of the candidacy of Governor Morton for the presidency meant, Mr. Platt assured them that it meant business, and that there would be seventy-two delegates from New York for the Governor. Some of the New Yorkers who have a leaning toward Speaker Reed asked Mr. Platt what would be done about second choice. He told them that nothing would be done at present, and, so far as he was consecond choice of New York would be one of the last things considered at the national convention. OKLAHOMIANS AT WAR

"DOUBLE STATERS" AND "SINGLE STATERS" CANNOT AGREE.

4, 5, 6 and 7, in this morning's World, were The Statehood Convention Ends in Row, and the Sheriff Turns the Delegates Out of the Hall.

> OKLAHOMA CITY, O. T., Jan. 8 .- The statehood convention was opened here this afternoon with good prospects for a merry war of factions. A large share of the delegates favor forming a State with the Chickasaw nation added, and with a provision allowing other nations of the Indian Territory to come in as they wish. Others are strongly opposed to such action and desire a single State formed by the union of Oklahoma and Indian Territory. .

A fight was in sight as soon as the convention met at 10 o'clock. Frank W. Thompson, a "double Stater," and W. T. Walker, a "single Stater," took sides on each end of the platform and tried to talk at the same time. At once the delegates mounted chairs, each faction yelling for its side. Amid the clamor T. F. Hensley, a "double Stater," was nominated for chairman, and so soon as his name was mentioned he jumped to the stage. For five minutes he talked against the clamor, Gradually his loud tones drowned out the noise and one delegate after another subsided and listened to his speech. Then the question of selecting the committee on credentials arose. Finally Chairman Hensley declared the motion to appoint five members on the committee carried. Those opposed yelled an appeal from the decision of the Chair.

From 2 till 2:30 o'clock the delegates, five hundred of them, howled. Then Patrick Nagle, of Kingfisher, pleaded for peace and harmony, and moved that the committee on credentials be composed of one from tee on credentials be composed of one from each delegation. This was carried, and then the Presidents of the different States to | tion of the delegates from the Chichasaw hour Dick Plunkett, the noted ex-prizefighter, formerly of Denver, was appointed sergeant-at-arms. He walked to the stage, and his great length and breadth of form seemed to awe the delegates. They quieted down and Plunkett said: "Gentlemen, I am proud to be sergeant-at-arms of this convention, which sits in the pride of the Territory. We want order here and we have got to have it." The delegates from the Chickasaw nation were recognized and the committee on credentials retired. At 8:50 the convention came to an inglorious end. At that hour the committee on credentials, having been unable to report owing to the strife between the "single Staters" and the "double Staters," Chairman Hensley declared the convention adjourned sine die. For half an hour afterwards the utmost confusion prevailed, and finally, when the uproar was approaching the proportions of a riot, Sheriff Deford turned out the lights and ordered the delegates from the hall into the street. This, it is believed, will end all organized effort to secure statehood from this Congress.

In his inaugural address Governor Lowndes declared that he considered himself and his party pledged to give the people of the State "an economical government, retrenching expense and reforming abuses." Among the means to this end he deemed fair assessment, just taxation, pure election laws and civil-service reform as being essential He favored bringing the public school system up to the highest standard and thought the colored people should be permitted to have separate schools and teachers as long as they want them. In conclusion, he pledged himself to be Governor of the whole State and not of any political party.
